

WITH THE District Agriculturist

By J. S. Duncan

Farm Safety

Everyone connected with farming is aware that "accidents" can and will happen. To be the subject of farm safety to the attention of everyone the week of July 22 to 28 is being proclaimed as Farm Safety Week. This coincides with National Farm Safety Week in the U.S. The purpose of this week is to remind us that accidents do happen on farms, and also to point out that most, if not all of them can be prevented. Make your actions safe by remembering that farm machinery and live stock can hurt you. Some accidents cause death, others pain and loss of time, still others are just near misses. Don't let any of them happen to you.

Potato Troubles

Diseases such as Black Leg, Late Blight, Early Blight, Leaf Roll, etc., are showing up in potatoes now. In most cases they are not too serious but plants showing signs of disease should be pulled up, taken out of the garden and burned. This will help to prevent the disease from spreading and also make sure that potatoes from infected plants are not used for seed next year.

Soil Erosion

Recent heavy rains have caused considerable gully erosion in many fields. A lot of these gullies are still small but once started they can cause a lot of trouble in the future. The best cure is to smooth the water run-off and seed it down to grass. It is not too hard to straighten runways out and keep the water under control. To let the gullies get worse simply means that fields are going to be out in sections that have to be worked separately.

Southern Sayings

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Freddie Bacon, formerly of the Strawberry Plains district, in Wainwright hospital on July 12, a daughter. Congratulations.

Well, ladies, where were the menfolk that extra hour on Saturday afternoon. They too were out for that Pot Luck lunch.

Weekly Inspirational Corner

(Sponsored by an Irma Times reader)

For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life.

For God sent not his Son into the world to condemn the world; but that the world through him might be saved.

He that believeth on him is not condemned: but he that believeth not is condemned already, because he hath not believed in the name of the only begotten Son of God.

He that believeth on the Son, hath everlasting life: and he that believeth not the Son shall not see life; but the wrath of God abideth on him.

John 3:16-18, 36.

New Deal For Indians Studied By Commission

By Ken Mason

EDMONTON — Alberta last week sat in on the first phase of what could turn out to be an interesting experiment in Canadian citizenship.

A three-man board heard representations from the 115-member Michel Indian band, near Edmonton, which wants to revoke Indian status and attain full citizenship rights.

Chief Judge Nelles V. Buchanan of the northern Alberta district court headed the inquiry board, which will submit a confidential report to Citizenship and Immigration Minister Pickersgill at Ottawa.

The majority of the band members appear to be in favor of the plan, and there was very little opposition expressed during the two-day hearings which featured testimony from a priest, church and Indian affairs department officials as well as from the Indians themselves.

The Michels, descendants of Iroquois guides and hunters who accompanied the first white explorers to western Canada, live on a 11,800-acre reservation a few miles northwest of Edmonton.

If their application for citizenship is granted, the reserve land will be divided among band members. By asking for citizenship, the Indians are seeking to abandon their Indian status and give up their annual treaty payment in return for the voting and property-holding rights of any other citizens.

The Michel band is taking the initiative at a time when there is growing concern in Canada over the problem of the Indian. The country's Indian population is steadily declining, and there is a feeling among many that the reservation system is not the answer.

Some church officials and government men believe the problem should be approached from the angle of helping the Indian to gradually integrate into the white man's society, rather than keeping him segregated on a reservation, under government care, where there might not be as much incentive for improvement.

It is generally agreed that the white man has exerted a bad influence on the Indian, and it can be argued that the influence is worse under a system where the Indian is low man in a type of class distinction.

Giving the Indian a feeling of independence might well be part of the answer, and the Michels might be the ones to prove it.

June was a particularly bad month for traffic accidents in Alberta this year, according to figures compiled by the Alberta Safety Council.

Road mishaps during the month took 25 lives—10 more than in June of last year. Perhaps part of the reason is that Alberta was favored with some fine, warm weather during June, resulting in unusually heavy traffic on provincial highways.

The majority of the fatal accidents during June—20 to be exact—were reported from rural areas, with the remainder in the cities.

During the six months from January 1 to June 30 Alberta had 93 traffic fatalities, an increase of only one over the figures for the same period last year.

ON TO VICTORIA... Election talk is brewing in B.C., the only other Canadian province with a Social Credit government. The guessing is that Premier Bennett will call a vote sometime this fall.

If he does, you can expect to see a cavalcade of Alberta cabinet ministers and Social Credit MLA's heading west to help wage campaign wars on behalf of the movement.

Undoubtedly, they'll hope to have more effect than they had in the recent Saskatchewan election, which returned CCF to power despite an invasion by Alberta ministers and MLA's.

The British Columbia campaign, whether it's this fall or sometime next year, won't be as tough a task, with Social Credit already in power and no evidence of really widespread dissatisfaction.

LIVESTOCK CO-OP ELECT OFFICERS

One of the best annual meetings of the Alberta Livestock Co-operative Limited was held in the Moose Temple at Edmonton on July 5 and 6. Interest in all phases of livestock marketing and production was continuously at a high level. This was the 18th annual meeting of the organization.

A total of 22 livestock shipping associations were represented and membership at large sent in 9 men to represent the interests of those persons who consigned livestock to the central selling organization from areas where co-operative shipping associations do not operate. In total approximately 40,000 individual livestock producers were spoken for by the delegates.

Mr. C. P. Hayes, A.L.C. president reported handlings for the year ending May 31, 1956, of—135,596 cattle and calves averaging 2607 head per week.

467,437 hogs averaging 8,969 per week.

18,792 sheep and lambs averaging 322 per week.

Gross handling again reached an impressive figure totalling $31,198,398.73. Net earnings amounted to $70,865.95.

Mr. Hayes decried the apparent lack of interest in the problems of the Alberta Livestock Producer and Farmer, basing this assertion on the fact that neither press nor radio were in attendance at the meeting.

One of the highlights of the meeting was the first evening session for many years which was devoted exclusively to the discussion of Marketing Boards. The discussions were enlightening and resolutions concerning these matters were finalized.

A feature of the meeting was an excellent address by W. H. T. Mead, Livestock Commissioner for the Province of Alberta concerning hog quality and the means available for improvement and the licensing and bonding of all Livestock Dealers.

Mr. Alex Charnetaki implemented Mr. Mead's address with colored slides showing various types of hogs, expounding their desirability or their faults.

Indicating wide representation throughout the Province, officials for the coming year consisted of—

C. P. Hayes, Strome, President.
Carl J. Anderson, Brooks, vice president.
R. H. Carlyle, Blackfalds, Executive Director.

Hugh W. Allen, Hualien, Director.
C. D. Lane, Neutral Hills, Director.
J. R. Tomlinson, Foisy, Director.

Archie Hogg, High River, Director.

Canadian statistics report

(A Weekly Review)

Gross National Product: Canada's gross national product rose during the first quarter of 1956 to a level equal to an annual rate of $28.3 billion, about 8 percent above the annual average for last year and nearly 11.7 percent above last year's first-quarter level. The quarter's rise reflected mainly a further rise in the physical volume of production. The output gain was concentrated in mining, forestry, construction, transportation and other service groups; manufacturing was little changed from the last 1955 quarter.

Corporation Profits: Corporation profits hit a new first-quarter peak this year, rising to an estimated $728,000,000 before taxes or 28 percent higher than last year. Income tax liabilities showed a smaller rise of 23 percent with the result that profits after taxes climbed an estimated 31 percent.

Housing: Construction of more new dwelling units was started and completed in the first four months this year than in 1955, both starts and completions in April adding to earlier gains. Number under construction at the end of April remained substantially above last year.

Labor Income: Estimated labor income in Canada during April was $1,121,000,000, up $110,000,000 over April last year, and the total for the first four months at $4,381,000,000 was over $400,000,000 greater than in the corresponding 1955 period. Both in April and the four months estimated income was higher for all major industrial divisions.

Manufacturing: Shipments by manufacturers were nearly 13 percent higher in value in April, close to 12 percent higher in the first four months, than last year. New orders in the month reached a higher value than shipments, increasing the value of unfilled orders.

Transportation: Railway car loadings rose again by 11 percent in the second week of June, grain continuing to contribute strongly to the increase. Urban transit systems in April had another drop in number of passengers but larger revenues.

Mining: Crude petroleum output for all Canada was 44 percent greater in this year's first quarter than in 1955 and sales of natural gas 35 percent greater.

Prosperity may return to the principality of Monaco and the Monte Carlo gambling house, but the resort will probably never again achieve the elegance it had before World War I. In those days Monte Carlo's best customers were the Russian grand dukes. They came to Monaco on the most luxurious railroad train in the world, the St. Petersburg-Vienna-Cannes express. The atmosphere of this train was so aristocratic that evening dress was compulsory in the dining car.

Why do dentists insist upon standing up while working? There are dental chairs which permit dentists to sit down while in action. The use of a dental chair is said to have the possibility of adding five or more years to a dentist's professional life. Too many dentists quit before they reach their legs go back on them. Also, the use of a restful chair by the dentist will give a better break for patients with late afternoon appointments. Dentists who have been standing up all day are often not in the best of humor around four in the afternoon.

They grow 'em big in Tennessee

Sarah Bernhardt did not marry for the first time until she was 30 years old. How large can a human being grow? So far the largest man known to medical historians was Miles Darden of Tennessee. Darden was seven feet six inches in height and weighed 871 pounds.

No credit, no cash

G. B. Shaw did not benefit financially from the operetta, "The Chocolate Soldier," inspired by his play, "Arms and the Man." The musical was written without consulting him. He demanded that his name not be used in connection with it or any of his dialogue be used. He was offered royalties by the producers but refused to accept them.

Intelligence defined

I am asked to define intelligence. I would say intelligence is the ability to get that out of what you know that you know that you do not necessarily an intelligent man. All of us are acquainted with stupid college graduates. As a class, the most intelligent men are the mechanics.

Turt talk

"Headie Eddie" Araro, the scintillating Cincinnati, is rated North America's greatest jockey. He has been riding 25 years, is 40 years old, five feet three, weighs 112, has a beautiful blonde wife, a daughter, 14, a son, 12, several Cadillac, a few station wagons, a Long Island mansion, 250 neckties, 80 pairs of shoes and 40 suits of clothes. The confidante of New York race goers in his ability is reflected in the saying frequently heard at the track: "Bet Araro, so you can come tomorrow."

Now it can be told

Subject of a recent prize letter competition was "How I Hooked My Husband." Many wives entered the competition and wrote with apparent pride and enthusiasm about the manner in which they hooked their husbands. Some of the methods used were most revealing. How right that man who said: "The world is full of women and the women full of wile."

Lady bosses on the increase

Ever work for a woman boss? How did you like it? The number of feminine executives continues to increase. In the U.S. there are now over a million women executives who are telling men what to do. Not only are there innumerable feminine bank officials and office managers but there are even forewomen of construction gangs! Get it right?

GET A HORSE—Riders in New York City's Central Park give the horse laugh to the driver of a three-wheeled utility car. Named the "Star", the tiny vehicle has a streamlined body of molded fiberglass and a one-cylinder German J.L.O. engine. The car has a maximum speed of 70 miles per hour, and is said to get 80 miles to the gallon. Less than three feet high, the Star is 10 feet, five inches long, 50 inches wide, and weighs only 400 pounds. The vehicle was designed for Bason Industries Corporation.

Youthful marriages said factor in high divorce rate

Samuel G. Kling, Baltimore lawyer and author of several books on marriage, told the Maryland State Bar Association unhappy marriages for outnumber blissful unions.

Now's the time when politicians are turning to their professional speech writers and asking, "What's my line?"

"Of course," replied the other goldfish, "who do you think changes our water?"

An Iowa farmer who no longer was in the mood for cow juice and who thought goat's milk pretty babbled, tried getting milk from birds. Figured it would be cheaper that way.

Noting that Maryland law allows boys of 18 and girls of 16 to marry if their parents consent and males of 21 and females of 18 to marry without parental consent, Kling added:

"What sort of laws do we have which deny a youngster under 21 the right to buy a glass of whisky but allow him the privilege of get married?"

Kling proposed a sweeping study of marriage and divorce laws, especially those which make youthful marriages possible.

GRACEFUL RETIREMENT

Farmers make a better adjustment to retirement than other occupations, a Cornell University study shows. The school found that farmers gradually taper off work while non-farm workers are more likely to be subject to sudden compulsory retirement upon reaching a certain age.

Making plans descend 20,000 feet under sea

Jacques Piccard of Switzerland, who has been 10,335 feet underwater in his bathyscaphe diving craft, is making plans to descend in the Gulf of Mexico.

Piccard has conferred with the Oceanography Department of Texas A. & M. College on plans for the dive if he is able to bring the bathyscaphe to this country.

He said that a dive of 20,000 feet into the ocean depths is possible with his "Trieste" diving craft. The 100-ton bathyscaphe is 16 yards long and has accommodations for two passengers seated in a chamber seven feet in diameter.

In 1953 Piccard and his father, Dr. August Piccard, made a record dive of 10,335 feet in the "Trieste", but the French navy descended 10,000 feet in 1954 in another bathyscaphe, Jacques Piccard designed for the present world record.

Two motor-driven propellers are used to turn the craft during the descent and lighting is concentrated in a small ocean area to give maximum visibility for thorough observations.

Trying to standardize traffic control devices

The first major step toward standardization of traffic control devices across Canada has been taken by the Canadian Good Roads Association in collaboration with the Canadian Section of the Institute of Traffic Engineers and numerous governments and national organizations. The Canadian manual is scheduled for publication by the end of 1957.

The first meeting of the Joint Committee on Uniform Traffic Control Devices for Canada was held May 7 in Winnipeg. It was convened by Hon. Antonio Talbot, President of CGRA, on the recommendation of the CGRA Committee on Technical Information and the Traffic Committee.

The meeting was attended by representatives of federal, provincial and municipal governments and national agencies with an interest and concern in standardizing traffic control devices. The manual was welcomed as essential to the convenience, economy and safety of highway transportation.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY —

"old man"

—By K. B. WILSON

I've painted a good many houses in my time—an' that there's a pretty close to bottle-green," said old Avery anxiously.

"Not exactly my idea of bottle-green," Dr. Smith said, starting across the lawn. "Get your ladder placed—I'll be back after my next patient."

"Is he turble allin'?" Sulphur an' molasses took in spring is powerful medicine," came, timidly from old Avery.

"That's right," laughed Dr. Smith. "Just what this fellow needs."

Old Avery tugged at a heavy extension-ladder. By exerting all the strength in his tall lean body, he got the ladder's end under the edge of the roof, then turned at the sound of footsteps.

"Know where's the janitor?" inquired a capable-looking young man, pointing to the apartment building next door.

Avery's watery blue eyes peered curiously over his spectacles. "What say?" squeaked his thin treble.

"I'd like to get work in this here apartment, I—"

"Work, eh? They got a regular man. Where you from?"

"Alabama."

"Don't that beat all! I preached down there when I was younger—preached so hard, wore out my voice. Ever paint much?"

"Little," said the stranger.

"You look willin' an' honest—step over to Judge Haight's across the street. He needs a man to putter round some."

The young man swung away on "Thanks." The village postman came up. Shifting his heavy leather bag to a new position on his shoulders, he asked, "What's doing here? Doc freshening up?"

"Plenty green, ain't it?" Old Avery's humped shoulders tried to straighten under his faded blue shirt. "Reminds me of my university days—when the grass was greenhorne. Ever paint much?"

"Not to speak of feed bother me a lot."

"Bottle-green, ain't it, old Avery?" said "That'll toughen 'em."

"Sounds like a sensible treatment. Thanks—I'll try it tonight." The postman walked toward the Smith mailbox.

Dr. Smith now reappeared. He peered down into the paint-pail. Scowled. "The missus insists on bottle-green. There's nobs in town."

"I could mix in a mile of lamp-black," suggested Avery.

"Just the ticket! Why didn't I think of that?"

"Ever paint much, Doc?"

"By spells. Garden furniture, cellar stairs—here comes that man from the employment agency." He greeted the workman with, "I want those loose shingles on the cupola nailed down."

"That's a tricky place to get to," complained the young man.

"That drifted office-bell again," exclaimed the doctor, making for the house.

Old Avery appraised the stranger. "Guess you never steered one of them new-fangled air-wagons. Afraid to climb?"

"No—it just makes me dizzy," acknowledged the young man.

"Unhealthy for a fellow in your business, ain't it? Lend me your hammer—an' that sheet of tin."

The young man handed them over without protest. Laboriously, old Avery crept up the long ladder, soon was vigorously pounding the cupola roof. When he stood beside the young workman again, he inquired, "Ever paint much?"

"None."

"I'll be 80 come Christmas—so my advice is seasoned. You'd better hire out to paint—'practice climbin' them that tries, prospers. Get folks?"

"No. I just hit town. I'm lookin' for jobs and—"

"You run 'long up Maple Street—number two. You set on the steps of that two-room shack till I come. I bach there—an' you're welcome."

"Thanks," flung out the young man, wheeling quickly away.

Old Avery squinted up at the black cloud hanging ominously low. He stooped, picked a sprig of catnip, tucked it carefully into his coat pocket. His tabby-cat dotted on catnip.

Suddenly, the rain pelted down. Old Avery lurched to the rear of the house, stuck his white head in the kitchen door. "Tell Doc I'll be round first thing in the mornin'—weather permittin'. There's no charge for today—I ain't done nothin' much."

"Okay—when I finish washing this window," grumbled Nellie, the maid. "Why they build high windows like this, beats me!"

"Let's have that cloth, Miss," said old Avery, taking the chemise out of her hand.

Painfully, he mounted the kitchen stool, wiped black soot from top window-panes.

"Thanks a million!" said Nellie, hearing his knee-joint crack at each downward step. "You're sure spiky!"

"Yes—developed muscle years ago whipping brussels carpets for stylish ladies—no to pay my way through the university. Ever paint much?"

Before Nellie could reply, Mrs. Smith called from the living room, "Nellie—don't start the ice cream! I've phoned the groceries—strawberries are sold out!"

"Louie's fruit-stand had a nice batch of 'em when I come past a while back," offered Avery.

"I'll go tell her," gasped Nellie, rushing away.

"I bet be gettin' on—not hinderin' folks as is some use in the world," murmured old Avery, picking his way down the rain-soaked steps.

Arrival marks 116th birthday Cunard Line

MONTREAL.—July 4 was the 116th birthday of the Cunard Line. On July 4, 1840, the Britannia steamed out of Liverpool with 115 passengers for Halifax and Boston.

She was the first vessel to sail regularly across the Atlantic Ocean and for Samuel Cunard of Halifax, N.S., her maiden voyage marked the realization of a life-long ambition, a scheduled steamship service between the Old World and the New.

The 22,000-ton Cunard liner Carinthia, newest and the 178th vessel of the Cunard Line completed her maiden voyage to Montreal July 3rd and was dressed overall with flags to mark her owners' 116th anniversary.

In contrast to the little Britannia, which carried a cow on board during the voyage so that passengers could have fresh milk each day, the Carinthia has a complete, fully equipped soda fountain and during the voyage just completed 4,000 meals were served each day.

To serve these meals, the Carinthia carries 14,000 pieces of cutlery and 15,000 pieces of china and glassware.

But the pioneer Britannia was not entirely overshadowed by these latest catering statistics. When she sailed proudly into Boston harbor on July 18, 1840, at the completion of her maiden voyage, Samuel Cunard, who was on board, received 1,800 invitations to dinner.

The Carinthia, which is 605 feet long and has nine decks, carries 154 first class passengers and 714 in tourist class. She is the third of four "new" 22,000-ton Cunarders built especially for the Canadian service. In the Britannia, passengers were provided with oil lamps in their cabins. The Carinthia's power station generates enough electricity for the needs of many a thriving Canadian town.

PACKING TIP

When packing a suitcase, don't overlook the space inside shoes. You'll be surprised at the quantity of belts, brushes, and other small items they'll hold. By the way, dirty soles won't spoil clothes if each pair of shoes is put into a polythene bag. You can buy them in many sizes, but if you want to be thrifty the bags that carrots come in are ideal!

NAVY "GRASSHOPPER"—This U.S. Navy "Grasshopper", one of nine being built at the Indianapolis Naval Ordnance Depot for Antarctic use, is an airborne weather station. Dropped from a plane, it shoots out six legs and a 20-foot antenna, then broadcasts weather in formation for a period of six months without requiring servicing.

Australia expecting big rush on TV sets at twice cost those in Canada

Australia is expecting television to be as popular as in North America, even though Australian receiving sets will be much more expensive, declares a Reuters story from Melbourne.

To begin with, too, programs will be broadcast for only a few hours a day.

"No firm announcement has yet been made of an opening date, though most of the six states to which licenses have been granted expect to start broadcasting in August. They have been casting test patterns for some time.

At least one Australian firm building receiving sets is offering them at £200 (£448) in console or table cabinets and £200 (£462) in portable sets.

These prices, which are expected to be general when other sets come on the market, are about double those for similar sets overseas.

They are expected to fall eventually, but not for some time. Legislation just passed gives the viewer's licence fee at £5 (£10.20). Expect early rush.

A survey undertaken by the Australia and New Zealand Bank shows that even the high cost of receivers and the as yet unknown quality of the programming is not likely to deter the public from an early rush to buy.

The survey quotes the average savings bank account in Melbourne at £550 (£1,112) and in Sydney a little less. This, together with the announced intention to televise the Olympic Games in November, is considered to promise a swift growth for Australian television.

Beneficial "Hold-Up"
A "HOLD-UP" that's helpful in the home workshop is illustrated as it appeared in Family Handyman. It's really a boon when you are working alone.

Just take a scrap piece of lumber, either a 1 by 3 or a 1 by 4:

hinge, and a hook and eye. How to put the "hold-up" together is clearly indicated in the drawing. When the prop is not needed to support long pieces of lumber, hardwood or other panel material, it drops out of the way.

After hanging it, hold it in a position that's level with the workbench, in order to locate the correct position for the hook and eye.

The baby's survey concludes that 90 percent TV saturation will be reached in Sydney and Melbourne which together total 1,000,000 households (3,000,000 people) in six or seven years.

Commercial television is expected to start simultaneously in Sydney and Melbourne with two stations in each city. The Australian Broadcasting Commission's television station in each city is expected to open shortly afterwards.

Film dominant
In initial programs, there will be a high percentage of filmed material, much of it from overseas. Live broadcasts will be confined in the early stages to studio parlor

National support urged

Canada's agricultural economy was the subject of a two-day meet in Winnipeg July 5 and 6 attended by ministers of agriculture and their deputies, from across the country.

The marketing of farm products, feed grain supplies and distribution, farm credit, grading and inspection of farm products and crop insurance were some of the problems discussed by conference delegates.

The conference as a body expressed concern about the rising costs of farm production and the fact that farmers have not fully shared in the buoyant condition of the Canadian economy. Manitoba's agriculture minister, R. D. Robertson, suggested that the union of farmers and farm organizations on important issues could effect the sort of changes needed on a national level.

Ontario's deputy minister of agriculture, C. D. Graham, outlined the chronic trouble farmers have both in soil and in water conservation in his province, and delegates agreed that a comprehensive national plan was needed to co-ordinate programs already in existence such as P.F.R.A., Maritime Marshland Rehabilitation Administration and the Winters Bill.

Another issue which interested government agriculturists was the nation's milk consumption. According to F. W. Walsh, deputy minister of Agriculture for Nova Scotia, Canada's per capita consumption is Canada's lowest.

Mr. Walsh suggested that farmers should compete more strenuously with makers of other food products. He said the U.S. had a National School Milk Program which had considerably increased the national intake of milk. Mr. Walsh said a similar program in Canada should, he thought, be worked out on a federal-provincial basis.

WINDOW CLEANER
If the picture from your window is always rather hazy, take a tip from the housewives in Holland. They keep their windows sparkling with a solution made by mixing one cup of older vinegar and one and-a-half gallons of hot water.

Summer vacation time brings almost constant fire danger

Summer vacation time is now in full swing at numerous cottages, beaches and resorts, and along with holiday fun there is an almost constant danger of fire.

Fire hazards result from lightly constructed cottages which are highly combustible, poor chimneys with non-approved metal stacks, substandard cooking, heating and lighting equipment and the use of flammable liquids for stoves and outdoor motors.

Vacationers should take the following precautions for a fire-free vacation:

1. Have a fire extinguisher or at least a pail of dry sand and a pail of water in your cottage handy and ready for quick use in case of fire. Dry sand is an effective extinguisher of oil or grease fires.
2. Do not use heating, cooking or electrical equipment in summer cottages that you would not want to use daily in your own home.
3. Treat portable propane stoves and lamps with respect, for they can become extremely dangerous if they leak or are subjected to rough treatment. Store such lamps well away from heating devices and out of the sun.
4. Never use flammable liquids to light or quicken wood-stove fires. Lives are lost in Saskatchewan each year due to this one cause. Handling of gasoline or coal-oil should be done with care.

Avoid smoking when filling tanks or motors, and never leave oil or gas stoves unattended while lit.

5. Store gasoline in a metal container, preferably outdoors, remote from an open flame of any kind.

6. Never hang clothing, towels, bathing suits, etc., above stoves to dry.

7. Make certain that flammable rubbish and ashes are properly disposed of in metal containers or by burning.

8. Do not leave matches or other combustibles where children can reach them.

9. Be careful with campfires, especially when small children are about. Children have been known to go too close to a fire and have their clothes ignite. Make sure your campfire is out before leaving the scene.

10. Replace any frayed electrical wiring, and keep extension cords away from halls.
